

Updated Statistics, page 224

Social and Humanitarian Immigration

Updated in 2016

The problem of refugees in the world, which has existed for decades, became headline news in 2015 when millions of people were displaced by a deadly civil war in Syria. Canada agreed to accept 25 000 of these people, more than double the number of refugees we normally take each year, in only a few months. You can learn how this refugee crisis came about.